FOREWORD

Because this is a book of people, the staff and I chose the title "Images" to best portray our thoughts. Our theme is awareness, a perfect representation of our young Buckley students. To be aware is to be alive and excited by life itself. Because of our awareness in learning, our lives have opened the door to understanding, responsibility, and the people who pass daily in and out of our lives. But most of all, we are aware of ourselves and realize the importance of giving our minds an education, so that we might better what we are. By doing this, we will better the world in which we live.

The staff of "Images" '67 has tried to make this a deep, warm, meaningful book. We have all worked hard, so that you the reader can see that Buckley students are individuals, young adults, coming from the halls of education to the paths of life. With our minds and spirit, we will awake those around us and make them aware.

Barbara-Lynn Montgomery
Editor

DEDICATION

In realizing that students do not always acknowledge the deserving, we the staff of Images '67, in appreciation, dedicate our first yearbook to Mr. Maxwell Kern, who has devoted fifty years of his life to teaching.

JUNIORS

We, the Junior class, believe that to be aware one must be conscious of everything going on around him. In this stage of our development, we are becoming conscious of certain things that were before vague and meaningless to us.

Many of us, realizing how close the future is, are beginning to prepare for it. Most are neither sure of their aims, nor sure of their individual purposes in life, but all realize the absolute necessity of learning in order to be useful in this modern world.

Slowly, we are learning to accept responsibility, the first step in becoming a mature adult. As one achieves awareness, one also achieves responsibility; to those older than he, younger than he, and above all to himself and his generation.

Through the observation of others, we are forming our own personal opinions, morals and beliefs about life.

All of the things mentioned above are a part of us and our Junior year; awareness of the future, learning, responsibility, and other people. But most of all, we have awakened and discovered ourselves.

SOPHOMORES

We are aware of the struggle for a college education, a basic necessity today for progress in life. Our class seems to realize that without a college education the chances for prosperity and peace of mind are very slim.

The boys of the Sophomore class are aware of the draft, which will be facing them in a few years. The class also expresses concern for the changing morality in the young world today. Many of us are worried about the problems of atomic weapons and our future as humans. Our eyes are open to the controversy over the war in Vietnam. We know that many people are killed every day.

As teenagers we are aware of the needs of friendships, security, and family unity. We are concerned with being individuals within ourselves and having our own thoughts and opinions. We are alert to the happenings around us and to the struggles which a teenager faces while trying to attain adulthood and maturity.

FRESHMEN

True forms of Education have been a shadow which, until now, has been a backdrop to growing up. Now, it has become a vivid, all-important factor in our lives. A determining factor which can and does influence our existence in school. What we do now in school is a base for our entire lives, and we are aware of this as a must for the future.

EIGHTH

The Eighth grade is aware of many things. For example, we know that much is expected of us. We are supposed to be suddenly mature, and sometimes find it hard to do the things we are required to do. We look at our teachers in a new way; not as perfect human beings, but as people capable of making mistakes.

We, as eighth graders, are more aware of criticism about ourselves and our friends.

We have been made to realize by our older relatives and friends, the difficulties of entering college. We know that we must begin preparing now, even though those problems seem so far off.

Day by day we are becoming aware of life, both in reality and in imagination.

First Row: Pam Prince, Jack Jones, Kurtis Roberts, Karen Guernsey, Peter Donen, Larry Schulman. Second Row: Lorna Fenenbock, David Forbes, Jan Pierson, Scott Welton. SEVENTH

Are you aware? We are. We are aware that we are the 7th Graders, going to school at Buckley High, learning and growing. We come to school every morning, attend classes, ride the buses home in the evening, and do our homework at night.

Most of us notice the events around us, not only in our school, but in our world: basketball games, bake sales, semester exams, the war in Vietnam. Step by step, experience by experience we are becoming aware of responsibility, maturity and leadership.

Our Seniors make us aware of the great help we can be to others through their friendliness and leadership. We strive to develop ourselves through their examples.

Most of all, we are aware of changes in ourselves.

Priscilla Danzig

Many of the students at Buckley are unaware of the actual work done by the student council. This is understandable for the council does most of its important work behind the scenes.

Student council meetings are where such school organizations as the charity and welfare, the yearbook, the dance, and the campus clean-up committees are created.

Every Wednesday, the council meets to discuss and try to find solutions to current problems within the school.

This year we have all tried very hard and we feel that we have been successful in our endeavors.

I would like to thank the advisors for their guidance, the officers and representatives for their help and the student body for their cooperation.

Sincerely,
Priscilla Danzig

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

From left: Priscilla Danzig, Kathy Hearn, Pam Rubin, Vickie Ashworth (absent).

A membership in the National Honor Society represents scholarship, citizenship and leadership. It is the highest honor that the school can give to a student. This year the members, although few in number, were a great help to the Charity and Welfare Committee by assisting in many of their drives. As president, I would like to say thank you to the members and especially to our advisor, Mrs. Flynn.

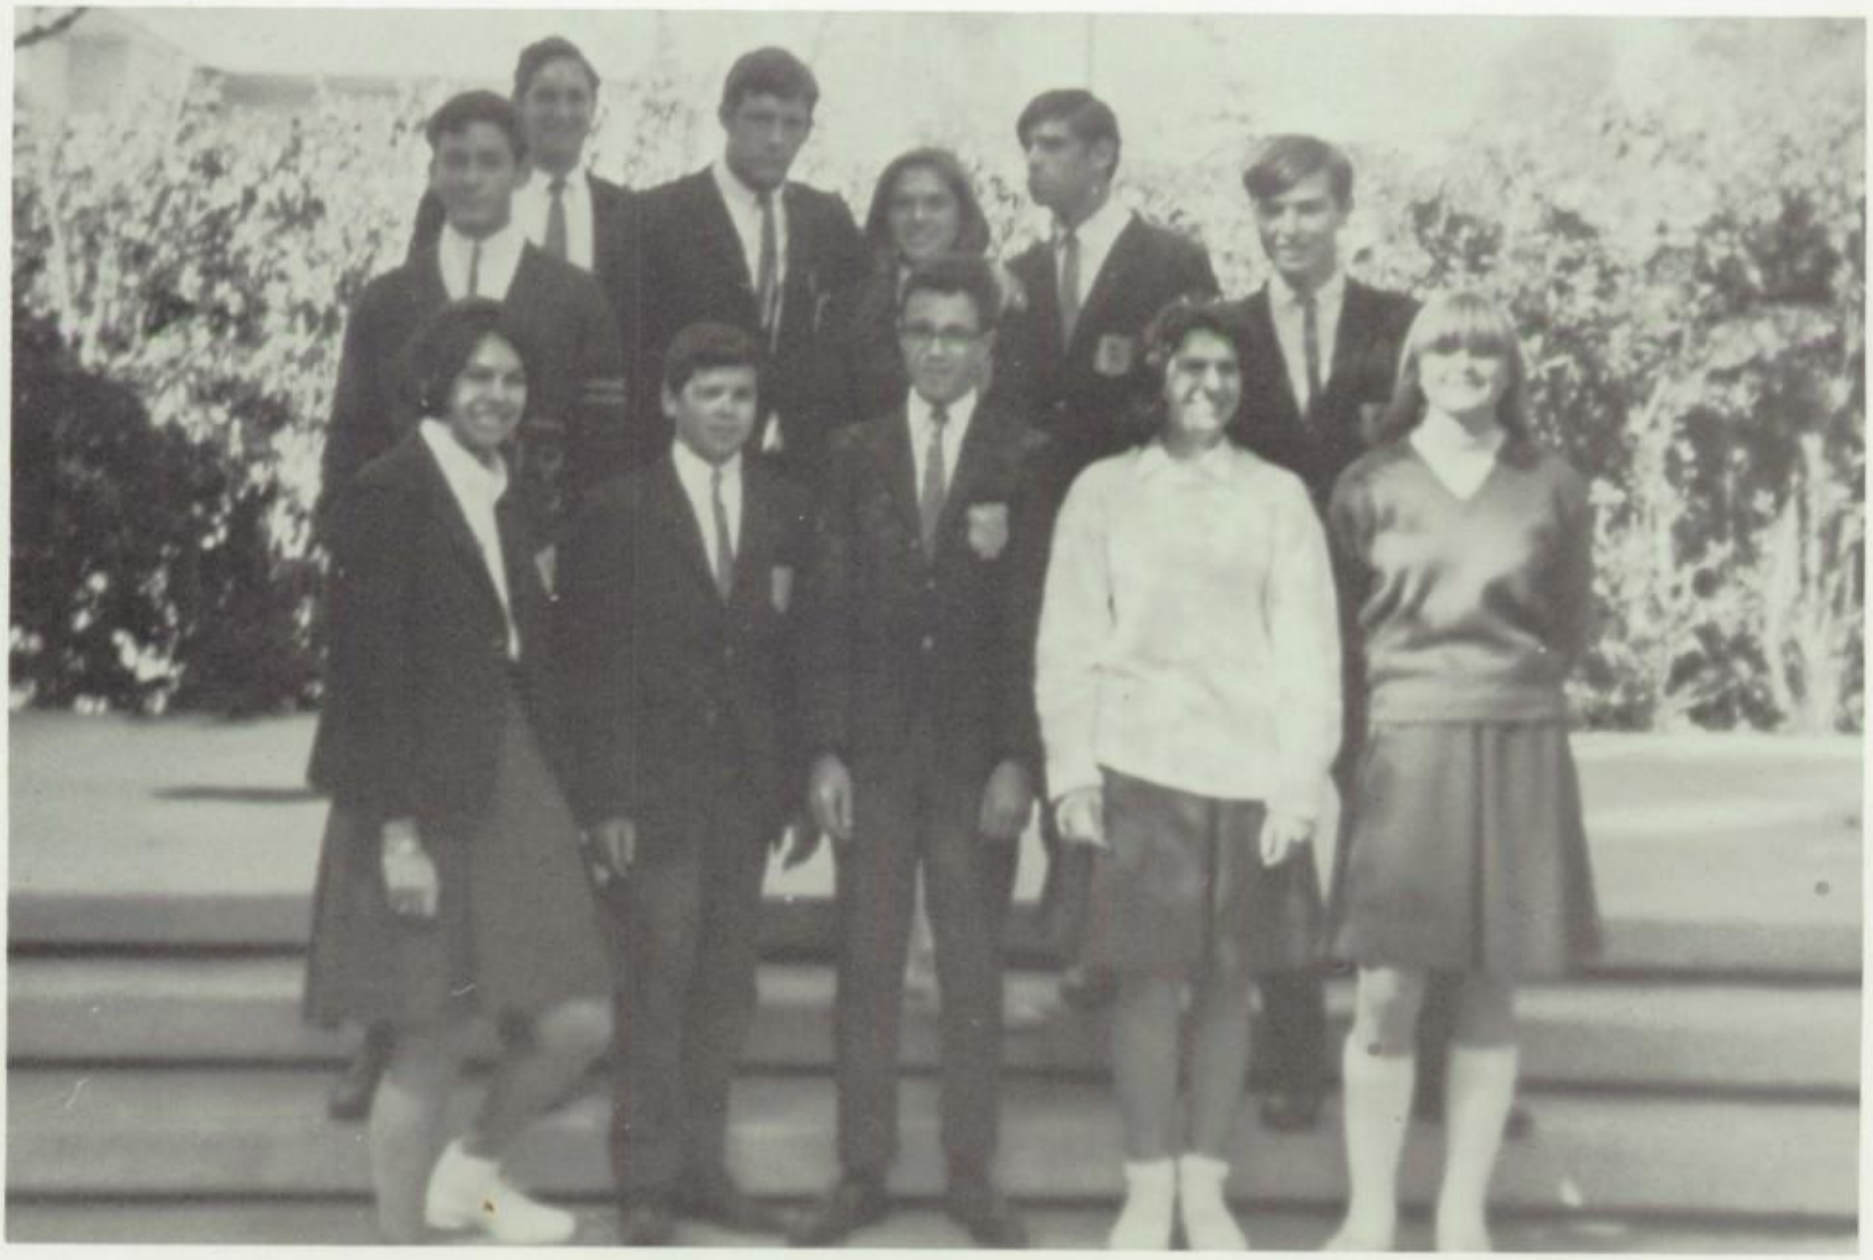
THE RAG STAFF



First Row: Karen Gluecksman, Brian Lane, Paul Tepper, Paula Russell, Lynne Miller. Second Row: Eric Troll, Elliot Smith, Chris Van Dyke, Georgene Spiros, Jeff Allen, Paul Laster.

This year our school newspaper has undergone many major changes. Firstly, we have named our paper "The Rag" and are striving to publish an issue bi-monthly. We have a new advisor, Mr. Bakwell, who has been hard-driving and inspiring. We have undertaken to publish permanent features, such as, editorials, a resumé of a California college, a gossip column, and many others. Our goal has been to present a paper which voices the thoughts and activities of our school.

Dear Martine,
I will really miss you next year. Have a great summer and do well in 10th grade.
Love ya,
Patty Bird

Martine - Have a swinging sophomore year at high school
Yvonne Barnes

DEAR MARTINE,
YOU'VE BEEN A LOT OF LAUGHS. A GOOD FRIEND, AND CONVERSATIONALIST, I HOPE I CAN SEE YOU AT LEAST ONCE MORE BEFORE I LEAVE. I'LL MISS YOU.
LOVE ALWAYS,

Dearest Martine,
When I went to Pickering I didn't want to come to Bickley. The only thing I noticed was you. But it wasn't because I wanted to date you. But it was because you became the only thing I could notice. Well, anyhow, I'm glad I came to Bickley for it has been an enjoyable experience. I'll never forget the many times we had together in school and on the bus. I'll never forget that time you and I were late for school and got detention

Dear Martin, really a sweet girl. I'm glad I met ya. You're a really g-r-e-a-t girl. Have summer and best of luck next year. I hope to see you this summer. Luv ya
Lucia
